English: Home Language

Mrs T. Landman

Ocean is a cheerful, enthusiastic pupil who has worked steadily. Although her writing has improved, she is encouraged to work hard on her responses to poetry questions and comprehension, as well as her responses to literary texts, aiming for greater depth of engagement in her arguments. Increasing her private reading will ensure these areas are strengthened. It has been a pleasure to teach Ocean.

IsiZulu: First Additional Language

Mrs H. Mkhize

Ocean is a responsible, interested, committed pupil who participates fully in class and is an absolute pleasure to teach. However, Ocean is encouraged to slow down and read questions carefully to avoid careless mistakes as she tends to rush through her paper.

Mathematics

Mrs C. Cholwich

Ocean continues to find Mathematics difficult and has struggled to come to grips with many of the Paper 2 concepts. Unfortunately, Ocean is not always as diligent as she could be, as her interests often lie outside the mathematics classroom. Ocean found the volume and depth of the recent Mathematics examinations extremely challenging and if she decides to remain on Maths Core, she will need to dedicate many extra hours to Mathematics each week in order to pass the subject.

Business Studies

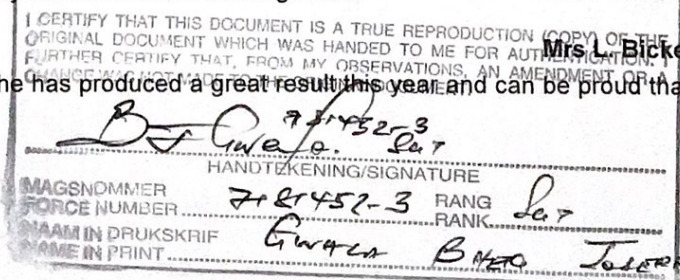

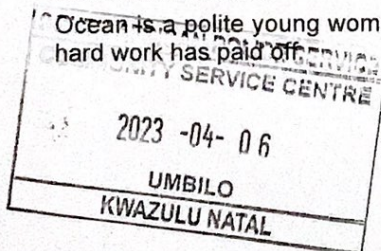

Mrs J. van Blerk

Ocean is a kind and respectful young girl. She has begun to work so nicely in Business Studies this year. Her examination paper reflects reasonable expected content recall with a clear understanding of what is being examined. She lost her marks in the Section C part of the examination paper which is the business report (0/50). Time management seemed to pose a major challenge. This must be addressed. Ocean is a capable pupil who has worked diligently throughout the year. She is encouraged to continue in this positive manner and constantly work on her time management.

Consumer Studies

Mrs L. Bickerton

Ocean is a polite young woman. She has produced a great result this year and can be proud that her hard work has paid off.

Dramatic Arts

Miss L. Smit

Ocean is a very capable student who has worked hard in the Dramatic Arts class. Her slam poetry performance was engaging and thought-provoking. She also showcased her comedic timing and physical theatre skills in her performance of a Woza Albert! extract. Going forward, it is essential that she makes a concerted effort to develop her vocal projection and articulation for stage performances. Her essay writing is solid and her preparation for the theory examination is evident. Keep up the good work, Ocean, and I am sure that you will reap the rewards.

Life Orientation

Mrs K. Davenport

Ocean is a mature and intuitive pupil who thinks deeply about the topics we cover in Life Orientation. She has worked steadily to produce this very pleasing result. She has excellent discursive essay writing skills.

Religious Education

Miss A. Sylvester

Ocean is a friendly pupil who actively participates during class discussions. I encourage her to take care when completing her written work, as she continues growing in her faith journey. In terms 3 and 4, we discussed how life is sacred, the importance of seeking wisdom and truth in discernment, the power of prayer through guided meditation, and preparing and celebrating a personalised class Mass together.

Extra Curricular

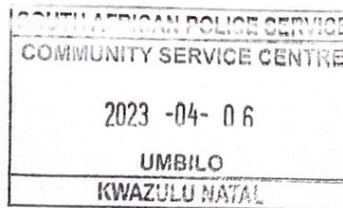

High School Production, Dance Club, House Plays, Toastmasters.

Leadership Position

Ocean is to be congratulated on being appointed as Head of the Culture Portfolio and Vice Captain of Marian.

Class Teacher General Comment

Ocean is a confident, friendly pupil who enjoys positive relationships with both teachers and peers alike. She has shown focus and determination to given tasks and participates enthusiastically in class discussions and activities. Ocean has involved herself fully in the life of the school and is a popular member of the class. It has been a pleasure having this delightful and dynamic young woman in the class and I wish her well for her final year of school in 2023.

T. Landman

Mrs T. Landman

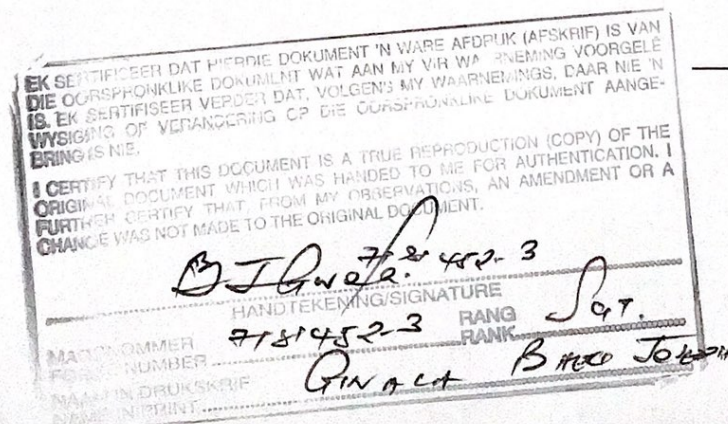

Head of Department

Ocean is a responsible, respectful young person. She has worked well in some of her subjects and has made pleasing progress, although her Mathematics is a cause for concern. I urge her to approach this subject with renewed determination next year and to take note of her teachers' advice in order to progress further. Ocean has met the requirements for promotion to Grade 12.
